

Christmas

What has a green tree, presents, and lots of smiles? That's right Christmas. It is my favorite time of year. I like to drink hot cocoa on the warm carpet by the fire.

Christmas makes me feel joyful because I get presents and celebrate Jesus's birthday.

It is special because I get to spend time with my family. I love to go to my grandparents' house to spend Christmas. They always have a huge tree with a big star on top.

That's why I love Christmas. It brings good times and old memories. I remember one Christmas when I had got a Kindle Fire. I was so excited. It was the best Christmas ever!

The Day Before Thanksgiving

What has the warmest kitchen the hottest oven, and the biggest hand? That's right, the day before Thanksgiving!

On that day I love baking and having fun with my family. In the kitchen all I can smell is sweet, warm pumpkin pie. I can also never get enough of my grandma's stories. (It's like a movie in your head.)

I also like running around the house with my cousin Ryder, and sometimes we get to taste test the whip cream!

It makes me feel happy and ecstatic because I love spending time with my family. I know when I grow up I will never never never forget this holiday.

That's why my life will never be complete without this time of year.

Thanksgiving

What has turkey and you celebrate with family? That's right it's Thanksgiving. We eat turkey to celebrate what the pilgrims did for us. The turkey I eat looks so good with the steam coming off and the gravy melting all over it.

Every Thanksgiving I'm always excited because my family and friends get to go on a camping trip. We always have a lot of fun. Camping is one of the funnest things I get to do. I'm always pumped up to go camping. We always have fun fishing. The fish look weird with their sharp gills and their bulging eyes.

I'm also happy because we're off school. I like camping because I don't have to freak about school or learn everything. It's nice to have a learn free vacation.

My favorite part is that we get to sleep in a tent. I like sleeping in a tent because I can hear and feel the cool air at night and I get to sleep on a reeeeeally soft air mattress and we get to make s'mores. The air mattress is so soft that when you lay on the pillows it feels like your head is sinking into a warm marshmallow.

That's why I really like going camping because I always have a good time.

Christmas

What has freezing cold weather, a green tree, a bunch of lights hung on the house and a lot of carolers outside the door? That's right Christmas! It's my favorite time of year!

Every year on Christmas I go to my mom's room, sneak up on her then I jump on her bed and scream, "Mom wake up wake up," until she finally does. Then I grab her hand, and pull her out of bed, and run in the hallway, and finally into the living room. Every Christmas morning my mom lets me and my sister open up one present. I always pick the smallest present so at night I can show off my bigger presents.

Christmas makes me feel special because when I get cool and expensive presents I know that my parents put a lot of effort into it. Every Christmas when my parents get me the present I want it just makes me give my parents a hug full of love.

That's why without Christmas my life would never be complete.
